

INTERNATIONAL INVESTMENT LAW I: SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES

Course description

This course will provide a basic introduction to the economics of international investment and an examination of international investment law at both the multilateral and regional levels and addresses key rule-making dynamics and challenges in investment negotiations. The course then focuses on the rapidly evolving landscape of investment rules under bilateral investment treaties (BITs) and preferential trade agreements with investment provisions. This course is of interest to practitioners from NGOs interested in development, officials from governmental institutions, international lawyers and academics. The main method of instruction will be the analysis of case studies, complemented with theoretical classes.
