Special data projects

Design of Trade Agreements DESTA: ongoing

Financed originally by the NCCR Trade Regulation, this joint project with Andreas Dür (University of Salzburg), Leonardo Baccini (Mc Gill University) and Karolina Milewicz (Oxford University) aims to systematically collect data on the design of trade agreements. It is to our knowledge the most ambitious project to gather data on preferential trade agreements (see www.designoftradeagreements.org)

The Diffusion of International Law: A Textual Analysis of International Investment Agreements, 2015-2017

This project sets up a new database of international investment agreements (IIAs) in one single format and standardized by language for answering a set of research questions related to understanding the design, evolution and effects of IIA. It has been funded by the Swiss Network of International Studies (www.snis.ch) and supported by the World Bank in cooperation with Prof Wolfgang Alschner (University of Ottawa) and Dr Rodrigo Polanco (WTI)

Regulating Big Data in Trade Agreements, 2017-2020

This project, jointly co-directed with Dr Mira Burri (University of Lucerne) focuses on big data-related provisions in preferential and multilateral trade agreements. Financed by the Swiss Science Foundation, we map and study the design and evolution of these clauses.

Unilateral Climate Action and International Trade Law, ongoing

Survey experiment as part of the MOSAiCH “Measurement and Observation of Social Attitudes in Switzerland (CH)” project, jointly with Prof Gabriele Spilker (Salzburg University)
