

Working Paper No. 2015/15. | April 2015

The potential effect of the African integration process on migration flows

Rosa Maria Losada/ First name last name
World Trade Institute
+ 41 79 688 42 54, rosa.losada@wti.org

As a contribution to the emerging debate on labour mobility as an adaptation strategy for migrants in regional settings lacking competitiveness and human capital development, the present paper will analyse the potential effects this regional integration could have on migration flows from the south to the North. It focus therefore on the African integration process and analyses its potential effect in a sense of favouring the diminishment of migration flows to the North.

In the sense of a diffusion of the underlying principle of partnership cooperation another dimension of the paper analyses the effects, if any, of the contribution of the Swiss – Nigerian Migration partnerships on the African integration process.

Research for this paper was funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation under a grant to the National Centre of Competence in Research on Trade Regulation, based at the World Trade Institute of the University of Bern, Switzerland.

NCCR TRADE WORKING PAPERS are preliminary documents posted on the NCCR Trade Regulation website (<www.nccr-trade.org>)and widely circulated to stimulate discussion and critical comment. These papers have not been formally edited. Citations should refer to an “NCCR Trade Working Paper”, with appropriate reference made to the author(s).